Art Rejections:

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lacheze, U.S. pat. No. 5,956,698.

Per claims 1 and 3, Lacheze discloses a method of monitoring usage of network printers by users comprising:

a) receiving an electronic message transmitted using a standard network protocol, the electronic message comprising information related to usage of the network printer (see col 6, lines 24-38 and col 9, lines 20-21);

Art Unit: 2154

- b) automatically extracting identifying information of the network printer from the electronic message (col 11, lines 6-18),
- c) automatically extracting page count information of the network printer from the electronic message; and
- d) automatically storing the page count information in association with the identifying information in a database (see col 9, lines 44-63).

Lacheze does not teach transmitting the usage messages using Internet protocol. An official notice is taken that the Internet protocol has been widely adapted and used as a standard network protocol for communications in the networks, especially wide area networks.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize conventional Internet protocol in Lacheze for transmitting messages from the printer to the printer log manager because it would have enabled implementing Lacheze's printer log manager in many existing networks including wide area networks, e.g., Internet (see col 11, lines 14-18).

Per claim 2, Lacheze teaches generating a message by the printer in response to a usage event (see col 8, line 64 - col 9, line 14).

Art Unit: 2154

Per claim 4, Lacheze teaches that the usage information reported to the user includes printer model and/or printer type (see col 12, lines 43-54).

Per claim 5, Lacheze also teaches recording total page counts for each user (see col 11, lines 56-67).

Claims 6-15 are similar in scope as that of claims 1-5.
